Argentina: Early this morning negotiators reached tentative agreement on terms for a cease-fire in the four-day rebellion, and Fleet Commander Vasquez is now seeking rebel approval of the agreement at the Puerto Belgrano naval base.

President Guido announced at 0050 EST that army troops sent to attack Puerto Belgrano were ordered to halt 55 miles from the base pending a decision by the rebels on the truce terms.

Until this morning, the national radio had frequently repeated communique 190 from Army Commander in Chief Ongania stating that no agreement had been reached on the cessation of hostilities.

The rebel fleet returned to Puerto Belgrano, its main naval base, yesterday afternoon as an inducement to further negotiations in line with army demands.

Throughout the truce talks, which began late on 3 April, Ongania has continued a general deployment of troops against Puerto Belgrano. During their southward movement, army troops took the naval base at Mar del Plata without resistance early on 4 April.

The deadline for a rebel decision has not been reported.

USSR: Members of the Soviet party presidium and secretariat as a group--minus Khrushchev who is on vacation--entertained a French Communist Party delegation in Moscow on 3 April. A public gathering of this sort during Khrushchev's absence is unprecedented in recent years and coincides with persistent rumors in Moscow of stress within the leadership. The gathering will probably be interpreted in the party bureaucracy as an indication by the leadership that Khrushchev's presence is not always necessary for the conduct of important public affairs and that collectivity in the party leadership is now being emphasized.

Yugoslavia-USSR: Belgrade is restricting Moscow's opportunities to influence the Yugoslav military establishment, even though it has purchased some military equipment from the USSR. According to the assistant Soviet military attaché in Belgrade, the Yugoslavs rejected a Soviet offer to send a military mission to train personnel in the use of Soviet equipment acquired during the past year.

instead, that some Yugoslav military personnel are being sent to the USSR for training.
