CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE BULLETIN

15 August 1966

*Vietnam: (Information as of 4:30 AM EDT)

The Military Situation in South Vietnam: Significant allied actions were confined to three operations over the weekend.

In Quang Tri Province, four battalions of US Marines continued the eleven-day search-and-destroy Operation PRAIRIE near the DMZ. The operation, which has so far resulted in five US and 68 enemy killed, is a continuation of Operation HASTINGS. (See Map)

Thirty miles south of Da Nang, US Marine and ARVN units in Operation COLORADO/LIEN KET 52 have reported light contact with an enemy force believed to include more than 3,000 men. Air strikes on 13 August killed 33 Viet Cong soldiers, bringing to 397 the number of enemy dead since the operation began on 3 August. (See Map)/

Press reports say that units of Operation PAUL REVERE II are attempting to surround a Communist battalion of perhaps 500 troops in Pleiku Province. Initial allied losses are one (US) killed and five (US) wounded. Enemy losses are not known. (See Map)

Political Developments in South Vietnam: There are continuing indications that a breakdown in negotiations between the government and FULRO, the dissident tribal autonomy movement, may be nearing.

the chief negotiator for FULRO, Y-Dhe Adrong, has stated that he will return to Cambodia if Premier Ky does not reply to FULRO demands by 15 August. Adrong, who has been in Darlac Province with a negotiating team since early July, reportedly intends to stage an antigovernment demonstration before returning to Cambodia. 7 (See Map)

General Vinh Loc, II Corps Commander, has reportedly ordered the chief of Darlac Province to seize six FULRO hostages in order to force other dissidents in the province and in Cambodia to return to government control. Although it is not clear, the intended hostages may be members of Adrong's group. Such an action by the government at this time would almost certainly end any hope for an early reconciliation.

Military Developments in North Vietnam: At least 11 North Vietnamese POL barges and three PT boats were destroyed this weekend by US Navy aircraft. Seven of the barges were apparently carrying oil offloaded from a tanker, probably the Soviet ship Komsomol, anchored near Cac Ba island when they were attacked. Eight probable Swatow-class motor gun boats were observed providing fire support for the tanker and barges. An F-8E Crusader was shot down by gunfire during the engagement, but the pilot was rescued. [(See Map)]

North Vietnam has now lost 11 naval vessels since 1 July 1966 when its combatant force was numbered at 40 ships. The commitment of as many as eight boats to protect the tanker off-loading operation may indicate that Hanoi attaches considerable importance to this method of bringing POL into the Haiphong area.

Communist China: The communique issued by the central committee of the Chinese Communist Party on 13 August, following a plenary meeting, does little but reaffirm domestic and foreign policy lines expounded at length over the past year.

It appears to be largely an attempt to give the impression that the entire party leadership is united under Mao and to counter recent indications of highlevel disarray.

The purposefully bland nature of the communique can be seen in the failure to name the speakers and participants in the 1-12 August plenum--the first held in four years--and in its lack of allusion to senior party figures who have recently fallen in the cultural purification drive. The communique made no reference to a demand last week in the authoritative party journal Red Flag that the purification drive should focus on bringing down more "powerful party figures."

On economic matters, the communique talked of a new "leap forward," but did not specify what measures were being adopted to achieve this. In other statements, it suggested that the regime is still taking a cautious attitude toward any basic changes in economic policies.

In the foreign policy area, the communique broke no new ground. On aid to Vietnam, it merely endorsed all measures which had been or might be taken "in consultation" with Hanoi. It also reaffirmed Peking's intention to press the all-out drive against Soviet revisionism and once again insisted that there can be "no middle road"--a clear-cut challenge to the North Korean and Japanese Communists who have grown increasingly independent of the Chinese.

NOTE

Dominican Republic: Unrest has mounted following a week of terrorist incidents and government efforts to clamp down on political activity. A firefight between police and suspected former rebel elements erupted on 12 August after the mortal wounding of Ramon Mejia del Castillo, a popular rebel commando leader. President Balaguer's intention to impose a two-year political truce appears to be shaping up into the first major issue between his administration and critics who charge that it would lay the groundwork for a new dictatorship.
