8. [Redacted] shuttle-train [Redacted] of 35 boxcars with military personnel was dispatched from Fuerstenberg to Schwerin-Goerris on 25 and 27 November. 3

25X1

9. On 25 and 29 November, an empty train of 46 converted boxcars each went from Schwerin to Magdeburg.

10. On 28 November, a troop train of 10 converted boxcars and 4 flatcars was loaded with 350 to 400 officers and EM wearing black-bordered blue epaulets, and four half-track vehicles with searchlights at the Dallgow-Doerberitz railroad station. The train was dispatched toward Doerberitz.

1. [Redacted] Comment. The shuttle-trains are commented on as follows:

[Redacted] the train went from Kuestrin to Weimar on 17 November 1953. As the train, however, left the zone to the east on the same day, its return on 21 November 1953 is given credence.

[Redacted] on 21 November 1953, the train returned empty to the zone via Kuestrin.

[Redacted] A previous report indicated that, immediately after its arrival in the zone on 23 November, the train must have been dispatched from Dresden to Guben on 24 November 1953. As such employment appears improbable, it is assumed that the data in paragraph 7 of the present report are correct, and that the shuttle-train actually left the zone via Frankfurt/Oder on 28 November 1953.

[Redacted] the train went from Magdeburg to Jagodin during the night of 21 November and, according to paragraph 2 of the present report, returned on 26 November 1953, it is not believed that the train arrived via Kuestrin. [Redacted]

[Redacted] It must be assumed, however, that the train arrived in the zone after a period of five days, about 26 November 1953.

[Redacted] The empty train was dispatched from Wustermark to Jueterbog on 13 November which indicates that the train left for the east via Kuestrin on 15 November 1953.

25X1 [redacted] the train went from Jueterbog to the east on 19 November.

25X1 [redacted] According to a previous report, the train went from Chemnitz to Frankfurt/Oder on 20 November, and, according to paragraph 2 of the present report, returned from the east to Weimar via Frankfurt/Oder on 24 November 1953. Paragraphs 1 and 7 of the present report indicate that the train again left the zone toward the east on 27 November 1953.

25X1 [redacted] On 19 November 1953, the train allegedly went from Chemnitz to Guben. Thus, its return from the east to Dresden on 24 November 1953 appears possible. It is not clear, however, whether the train came via Guben or Frankfurt/Oder.

25X1 [redacted] The employment of the train reported in paragraph 2 was [redacted] is confirmed by the present report.

All other shuttle-trains reported [redacted] are observed for the first time in conjunction with the routes mentioned.

25X1 2. [redacted] Comment. These trains with a small number of cars probably carried replacements who were distributed to units at various posts.

25X1 3. [redacted] Comment. As the interzonal shuttle-train [redacted] previously employed between Magdeburg and posts of the Third Shock Army only, its dispatching from Fuerstenberg is doubted.
