1. All Rumanian sailors up to 45 years of age are required to attend special security and political lectures when they spend any amount of time in a Rumanian port. Prior to the winter of 1953, these courses were obligatory for those over 45 years of age, but now they are optional. Instructors for the courses are both civilian Communist officials and former Danube River sailors. The latter usually explain to newly employed sailors the regulations regarding river traffic and the conduct expected of them while in foreign ports. 25X1
2. For Rumanian barges proceeding upstream, the last Rumanian control point is at Moldova-Veche. At this control station no specific instructions are given to the sailors regarding their conduct and activities in Vienna, since they were warned by their political instructor in Rumania to shun contact with local Austrian citizens. 25X1
