1. Chinese Communist troop units were stationed at the following locations in Amoy: 25X1
 - a. Border Defense Troops (Pien Fang Pu Tui, 6708/7089/6752/7130), vicinity of the Hsia Ho (0633/4421) Bus Company, Fuyü (3187/1546), Amoy.
 - b. Public Security Troops (Kung An Pu Tui, 0361/1344/6572/7130), provincial hospital on the Hsia Ho highway, Amoy.
 - c. Maritime Public Security Troops (Shui Shang Kung An Pu Tui, 3055/0006/-0361/1344/6572/7130) Amoy Headquarters, former Agricultural and Forestry Company warehouse near the No. 5 pier just off the Hsia Ho highway adjacent to the Amoy shipyard.

2. The headquarters of the Communist 7 Army Group, which was rumored recently to have been transferred from Canton to either the Amoy area, or to Changchou (3361/1558) and its surrounding area, has been established at the Huf'ou (5706/7333) Hill, Amoy. Its troops were stationed at Huch'iyen (5706/3305/1484), on the hills near Hungshanssu (7703/1472/1408) and in the area of Hoshan (4421/1472). The men wore no identification, except a badge indicating that they belonged to the People's Liberation Army. 25X1
3. There was a guerrilla unit attached to the 7 Army Group (4574/0003/0365/0957). Its headquarters was at the quarantine station near the Ma Tsu (1265/4371) Pier, to the left of the Lu Chiang (7752/3068) Ferry pier in Amoy. All the approximately 500 members of this unit wore black Chinese suits. They were armed with submachine guns. All were well built and spent money freely. They were often seen swimming in the harbor.

 Comments

25X1

1. The border defense troops are probably public security troops assigned to border defense duties.

2. The 7 Army Group has never been accepted in Fukien.
