1. Although most of the Soviet-Rumanian enterprises (Sovroms) have been abolished, the control of Rumanian enterprises by Soviet officials has increased. The material aid from the USSR which had been received during the time of the Sovroms, though in small quantities, has ceased.
2. After the definite cessation of excavation work on the Danube-Black Sea Canal, the Soviets demanded payment for all installations and the machinery used in the project or which had deteriorated, as well as rent on equipment which was still operative. The USSR is now demanding the return of the equipment.
