DISCUSSION POINTS: CIA EXECUTIVE POSITIONS

1. Military Personnel

Should Military personnel who are occupying Executive Positions be included in the Executive Inventory? Should Military personnel be considered as eligible for nomination to the Executive Inventory? Is the Executive Inventory limited to Staff Employees at this time?

2. DAD's and Division Chiefs

If DAD positions, as a group, are considered to be Executive Positions should not all DAD positions be included? Should the position of Division Chief be accepted as executive positions of Agency-wide significance for one component and not in other components?

3. Announcement of Executive Positions

Should consideration be given to the fact that the Executive Positions will be contained in the Executive Inventory Regulation which will be issued to the Agency?

4. Automatic Inclusion in Executive Inventory

The Board has agreed that the incumbent of an Executive Position, according to the official record, is automatically in the Executive Inventory without regard for his qualifications for the job.

5. Information on who is in the Inventory

Information concerning all nominees who are not incumbents of Executive Positions must be held on a highly confidential basis.

6. Requesting Nominations

Since letters requesting nominations go to the incumbents of Executive Positions, no letters can be sent out until the list of Executive Positions is approved.
