KADIR, Prince ABD ul

Son of Sultan Abdul Hamid and nephew of Sultan Mohammed V / when Turkey became a republic November 1, 1923, he left Turkey and settled in Budapest, with his beautiful wife Nejije and two children; they led a gay life and soon wasted the enormous fortune that he had taken out of Turkey in family jewels; when the money was gone, he and his wife became night club entertainers; then she ran away to Paris in 1937 with a rich land proprietor / he became involved in debts; suddenly he turned up in Berlin, according to the Hungarian daily Szabadsag: a mysterious friend, really the German Minister to Budapest, has paid all his debts, and he seems to have plenty of money; Hitler has picked him to be a Turkish Quisling, if one is needed.

Perhaps the best known of all the American "radio traitors"; a native of Iowa with an obscure background which includes some sporadic newspapering; Kaltenbach plugs the homely virtues of the Middle West, stressing his own "200 per cent Americanism" in efforts to prove that "real Americans" think just like real Nazis; U.S. may seek indictment in absentia against him for doing shortwave broadcasts to the U.S. for German propaganda bureaus.
