The Ediciones Pueblos Unidos (EPU) is currently unable to export its literature to Brazil, Chile, Argentina, and Bolivia as it has done in the past. This company is said to be losing a large amount of money and is in difficult financial straits. The directors in the Soviet Union who are in charge of the EPU are no longer disposed to grant credit to the publishing house. Evgueni de Deniseco, supervisory official of the EPU in Montevideo and Commercial Counselor of the Soviet Legation, has allegedly become very concerned about the affairs of the EPU and is insisting that the director of the organization, Moises Dimenstein, do everything possible to settle the obligations which have been incurred by the company.
