1. In early April 1949 a radio detector car of the Federal District police of Caracas located a clandestine transmitter in a hut on the side of Monte Belen, a mountain between Caracas and Teques. The radio was heard by the police on the night of 4 April 1949 broadcasting Accion Democratica propaganda.
2. The huthousing the radio was abandoned, but the police found a peon guarding it and arrested him. This man could not or would not tell the police anything, and it was considered doubtful whether he knew what he was guarding. The police have not been able to discover the persons who operated the set. The radio was in perfect working condition.
