DATE OF CONTENT. DATE DETAINED REFERENCES PAGES 2 ENCLOSURES (No. 2 TYFE) 1-sketch on ditto 1. Stream ARKS 1. Regattastrasse, Berlin-Gruenau, consisted of nine low brick buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Redia entennas were suspended from wooden noles braced by guy lines. Notor vehicles seen in the camp 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 3 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore conteined an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 reters high, which were interconnected by three double entennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car	0X1-HU
PLACE OBTAINED DATE OF CONTENT DATE OBTAINED DAT	150) 0X1-HU
ARTE OF CONTENT. ARTE DEFENDED DATE DEFENDED 16 Lay 1951 ARGES 2 ENCLOSURES (No. & Type) 1-sketch on ditto 1. Regattastrasse, Berlin-Gruenau, consisted of nine low brick buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Redio antennas were suspended from wooden noles braced by zuv lines. Notor vehicles seen in the camp 1. Regattastrasse, Berlin-Gruenau, consisted of nine low brick buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Redio antennas were suspended from wooden noles braced by zuv lines. Notor vehicles seen in the camp 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 3 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore conteined an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 wotor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Santries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed	150) 0X1-HU
ATE OBTAINED 1. SEPARKS 2 ENCLOSURES (NO. 2 Type) 1-sketch on ditto 3. Regattastrasse, Berlin-Gruenau, consisted of nine low brick buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Redio antennas were suspended from wooden noles braced by zuv lines. Notor vehicles seen in the camp 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 3 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contrined an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 wotor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 raters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas cach. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car	150) 0X1-HU
ARTE OBTAINED DATE PREPARED 1. REMARKS 2 ENCLOSURES (No. & Type) 1-sketch on ditto 1. Regattastrasse, Berlin-Gruenau, consisted of nine low brick buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Radio antennas were suspended from wooden noles braced by zuv lines. Hotor vehicles seen in the camp 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 3 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passanger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car	0X1-HU
AGES 2 ENCLOSURES (No. & Type) 1-sketch on ditto L. 1. REMARKS 1. Regattastrasse, Berlin-Gruenau, consisted of nine low brick buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Radio antennas were suspended from wooden noies braced by zuv lines. Hotor vehicles seen in the camp 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 3 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passanger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car	0X1-HU
1. Regattastrasse, Berlin-Gruenau, consisted of nine low brick buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Radio antennas were suspended from wooden noles braced by zuv lines. Notor vehicles seen in the camp 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 3 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car	0X1-HU
IEMARKS on 2 April 1951, that the EVD camp on Regattastrasse, Berlin-Gruenau, consisted of nine low brick buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Radio antennas were suspended from wooden noies braced by guy lines. Motor vehicles seen in the camp 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 3 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car	0X1-HU on 2 April 1951, that the EVD camp on Regattastrasse, Berlin-Gruenau, consisted of nine low brick buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Radio antennas were suspended from wooden noles braced by guv lines. Motor vehicles seen in the camp 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 3 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 wotor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed	01 negattastrasse, Berlin-Gruenau, consisted of nine low brick buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Radio antennas were suspended from wooden noles braced by guy lines. Notor vehicles seen in the camp * 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 3 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air radi shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed negattastrasse, Berlin-Gruenau, consisted of nine low brick buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Radio antennas were suspended from wooden noles braced by guy lines. Notor vehicles seen in the camp * 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 3 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air radi shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed
1. Regattastrasse, Berlin-Gruenau, consisted of nine low brick buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Radio antennas were suspended from wooden noles braced by guy lines. Hotor vehicles seen in the camp * 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 3 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 neters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there wore red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed ne-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Passenger car and sentries wearing green epaulets were observed
Regattastrasse, Berlin-Gruenau, consisted of nine low brick buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Radio antennas were suspended from wooden noles braced by zuv lines. Hotor vehicles seen in the camp * 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 8 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three dcuble antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green epaulets were observed	الله:
Regattastrasse, Berlin-Gruenau, consisted of nine low brick buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Radio antennas were suspended from wooden noles braced by zuv lines. Hotor vehicles seen in the camp * 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 8 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three dcuble antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green epaulets were observed	الله:
Regattastrasse, Berlin-Gruenau, consisted of nine low brick buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Radio antennas were suspended from wooden noles braced by guy lines. Hotor vehicles seen in the camp * 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 8 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three dcuble antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green epaulets were observed	X1-HU№ buildings, including a building for cultural performances and a new kitchen building. Radio antennas were suspended from wooden noles braced by guv lines. Motor vehicles seen in the camp * 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 3 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green epaulets were observed and a new kitchen building. Radio antennas were suspended from wooden noles braced by guy lines. Motor vehicles seen in the camp * 2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 3 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green epaulets were observed
2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of 8 one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green epaulets were observed
2. On 5 April, the camp in Berlin-Gruenau consisting of S one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed
one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green epaulets were observed	0X1-HU
one-story brick buildings quartered about 300 troops who wore green epaulets and 40 to 50 soldiers who wore crimson epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three dcuble antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green epaulets were observed epaulets. The camp furthermore contained an air raid shelter converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed converted into garages for about 20 motor vehicles and a radio installation of four wooden poles, about 20 meters high, which were interconnected by three double antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed high, which were interconnected by three dcuble antennas each. Three lead-ins ran from the center of each antenna to a wooden shed. 3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed
3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed
3. Garages sheltering about 45 trucks, about 30 passenger cars, 2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed
2 fire trucks, and I ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there wore red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed	0X1-HU
2 fire trucks, and I ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there wore red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed
2 fire trucks, and 1 ambulance were located on the athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club on Regattastrasse. Sentries there were red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed Sentries there wore red enaulets. Passenger car and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed and sentries wearing green enaulets were observed	0X1-HU and sentries wearing green epaulets were observed and the contraction of the contr
at the military supply installation close to the athletic field.	-
Total etrasse. Recattastrasse and the Dahme River was occupied by Soviet dependents and guarded by soldiers with green epaulets.
ridito of cor	∩ ⊻ 1_⊔∐
	0X1-HU
	0X1-HU
Lo CLASSISICATION CONFIDENTIAC DITROL/US OFFICIALS ONLY	0X1-HU
Degument No. 009	0X1-HU
Document No No Change In Class.	0X1-HU
Declass Change as TS S (C)	0X1-HU

	CONFLORMELEO MTROL/US OFFICIALS OFLY
	2	50X1
	seestrasse. **
ő.	The hotel at 78 Regattastrasse quartered Soviet military personnel. A few MVD soldiers were seen in a near-by school, the gymnasium of which had been converted into a club.
*	Comment. The MVD camp in the angle formed by Regatta- strasse and Bohnsdorferstrasse quarters an MVD signal unit.	50X1-HUM 50X1-HUM
	Comment. This restricted area is believed to contain MVD offices in addition to dependent billets. For all MVD installations in Berlin-Gruenau, see .	50X1-HUM 50X1-HUM
	1 Annex: 1-sketch	50X1-HUM

CONFIDENTIAL TROL/US OFFICIALS ONLY

MVD Installations in Berlin-Gruenau

CONFIDENTIAL ROL/US OFFICIALS ONLY

50X1-HUM

CONFIDENTIAL DITROL/US OFFICIALS ONLY

Annex	50X
  50X1

Legend:

- 1 MVD camp
- 2 Villas occupied by MVD personnel
- 3 Garages
- 4 Athletic field of the railroadmen's sports club
- 5 Military supply installation
- 6 Barber shop
- 7 Hotel
- 3 School
- 9 Gymnasium
- 10 Athletic field
- 11 Air raid shelter
- 12 Residential quarter
- 13 Restricted area

CONFIDENTIAL
SECRET-CONTROL/US OFFICIALS ONLY

$ $ 11 . P$ $ 5 5