1. [REDACTED] at the Ministry of Interior told the informant that plans were being made for the evacuation from Bucharest of 250,000 persons. Among the first to be evacuated were former farmers and wealthy persons. Since June 1951 the influx of Soviet military and civilian personnel into Bucharest makes this move necessary.
2. In July 1951, Rumanians, Serbs and Schwabs were evacuated from the Yugoslav-Rumanian border areas. About 144 railroad trains, each pulling about 60 cars filled with evacuees, were transported from the border areas to the Cosambesti, Marculesti, and Jegalia stations. About 700 families, together with their household effects and clothing, were "resettled" on an open field lying between Calarasi and Cioroiu.
3. Among the evacuees from the Turnu Severin regions now settled at Giulnita were Dr. Trailescu and a certain Babeanu, former Governor of the National Bank in Rumania.
