SECRETPreliminary Note

This list of Comintern personnel is simply a roster, not a biographical register, and at the same time a personality index to the text (not appendices) of the previous paper, The Third (Communist) International: Structure and Functions. It is confined to personnel who have at one time or another held positions in the headquarters or in the field organizations of the Executive Committee of the Third International, and to selected members of the Profintern, the International of Seamen and Harbor Workers, and the Young Communist International. In several cases individuals are included in the list because other facts (training in a Comintern school or extended residence in the USSR) make it likely that they held Comintern assignments even though no additional positive evidence is available.

The available material is far too limited to construct a complete list of all personnel who actually worked in the Comintern apparatus, especially in its clandestine agencies. The varying reliability, clarity, and exactness of the material are responsible for the following inadequacies of the list attached:

- a. Frequent absence of first names.
- b. Inability to distinguish cover-names from true names.
- c. Omissions of country of origin.
- d. Inconsistencies in the spelling of foreign names.
- e. Frequent uncertainty as to exact assignment, or dates of assignment.

The absence of adequate checking facilities accounts for the lack of information on the current status of the majority of personnel listed. This roster is accordingly highly tentative, and is subject to extensive correction, addition, and excision.

Numbers appearing in round brackets immediately after the name entry in the first column refer to the pages of the Structure and Functions study cited above.
