

25X1A

20 May 1952

25X1A

Historical Section

OSI History

I have been over the OSI history again, this time with more care and find it admirable. There are a few points noted on the attached sheet which are relatively trivial in themselves, but perhaps need comment or clarification.

It may be that the charts will help, but I think a few opening pages on just what OSI does would be of help to the reader. In other words, how does OSI (a) get intelligence information, (b) how is this information analyzed, (c) what is the final product, and (d) who are the customers for it.

25X1A

Attachment

WGW:mw