DESCRIPTORS: *Radio equipment, *Reliability, Climatic factors.

Climatic conditions in which radio equipment may be found or operated are described and analysis of typical failures of radio components and materials are presented. Considerable attention is devoted to the physical processes of interaction of materials with the environment. The concluding section of the book is devoted to methods of calculating the reliability and general problems of designing of radio equipment with consideration of the effect of environment. The book
