GENERAL STATEMENTB. BACKGROUND1. Purpose

The purpose of this series of annual reports, of which the attached is the first report, is to provide a standardized statement of the numbers and trends and categories of U.S. citizens stationed or residing in foreign countries and their possessions. In the future it will serve, when comparisons can be made from year to year, to facilitate reporting to the President on the implementation of the national policy of insuring that the total number of U.S. official personnel and contractors in each country is held to a strict minimum consistent with sound implementation of essential programs.

2. Origin

In July 1957, the President directed that each department and agency of the U.S. Government that employs U.S. citizen personnel in a foreign country should report annually to the Operations Coordinating Board the number of such personnel, together with a report on the number of dependents thereof. He requested that the report cover (1) civilian employees, (2) military personnel assigned to commands and other military personnel overseas, and (3) personnel that are providing services for the U.S. Government under personal service contracts (NSC Action 1752b). This directive resulted from the consideration in the National Security Council of the report of the Operations Coordinating Board to the Council dated July 12, 1957, "Interim Report of U.S. Personnel Stationed in Foreign Countries," which was a first attempt to develop an overall statistical report by means of utilizing statistics and estimates available through a great variety of sources.

3. Method

The OCB approved general instructions for the preparation of the annual report including a standard list of countries and possessions (attachment 1). Each department and agency of the U.S. Government was requested to submit to the OCB no later than June 15, 1958, a report of the number of U.S. citizen personnel employed by the agency as of March 31 in each of the countries and possessions on the standard list.

 C. FACTORS TO NOTE IN CONSIDERING THE TABLES

1. This is the first standard report in a series for purposes of future comparison of over-all and country trends. The figures contained therein are considered to be reasonably accurate, but as in the case of all reports of this type, there will be increased reliability as improvements in reporting are achieved. Future reports will improve from a statistical standpoint, but this report is satisfactory as a source of dependable information.

2. The July 1957 report was an "interim report" prepared from a variety of disparate sources and covering different periods. Attachment 3 of the OCB Report of July 12, 1957, indicates in detail the sources of error and the degree of reliability of the figures contained in the 1957 report. Because of this situation any comparisons between the 1957 report and the 1958 report should be made with caution. Generally, the figures for official U.S. military and civilian citizen employees are comparable, although in certain countries the civilian employee category now includes contractor personnel and USIA grantees which were not included previously.

 D. COMPARATIVE ANALYSES

1. There are five comparative tables appended to the Report (Tables A-E) which, although not a formal part of the report, are transmitted because they proved useful to the OCB in revising the report and may serve the same function for the National Security Council.
