MEMORANDUM FOR: Director, Foreign Broadcast Information Service

FROM : Chief, FBIS London Bureau

THROUGH : Chief, Operations Group

SUBJECT : Monthly Report - London Bureau - July 1986

I. GENERAL

1. Construction of the new Monitoring Service buildings continued on schedule during July. The completion date is scheduled for April 1987, according to an announcement by General Manager Eric Bowman. The GMMS also announced a delay in the introduction of the computer system at Caversham caused by unexpectedly protracted work on functional specifications. The computer will not be fully operational until January 1988, and the changeover to the new system may not take place by the end of March 1988 as originally anticipated. A training program in computer use for the BBC non-engineering staff is being drawn up and unions are being consulted on work practices in the post-computerization period. On the satellite front, the 12 Ghz KU-band 2-meter dish antenna installed by the Monitoring Service at the east end of the main building is not yet fully operational due to a spate of minor vandalism recently. At Crowsley Park, the bases and cable ducts for the new satellite dishes (11-meter, C band, fully steerable) are being installed, and the first dish is expected on site in September with limited operation before the end of the year. Fiber optic cable for video circuits from Crowsley to Caversham has been installed.
2. A.M. Stevens, Monitoring Service Head of Personnel and Administration, announced his early retirement this fall for medical reasons. No definite date has been set or his replacement named.
3. All $43.5K of the bureau-requested funds for Internet has been approved by Headquarters. The only slight glitch in bureau efforts to be fully operational by the 1 October deadline is the delay until September for receipt from the manufacturer of special UHF cabling to allow the bureau to tap into the Monitoring Service's inhouse circuit for all satellite-monitored television feeds as well as UK television. Bureau suggestions on the draft Internet coverage schedule, a paper on proposed Internet staffing, and an update on Bureau funding and equipment needs, expenditures and acquisitions have been forwarded to Headquarters for review.
4. A brief mention of FBIS appeared in the newspaper THE AMERICAN, "the only newspaper published in Britain for all Americans". In an article on how business researchers can obtain U.S.

Government information legitimately through the Commerce Department, the paper noted: "There is also a daily service available of foreign press and radio translations. Hundreds of radio news transmissions, newspaper editorials, articles and magazine features from the Foreign Broadcast Information Service are monitored every day by U.S. analysts ((sic)), and grouped into eight volumes of interest." FBIS editors may want to approach PMCD for proper remuneration in their new status as "U.S. analysts".

5. The Monitoring Service reinvigorated its security awareness after releasing the news that "an incendiary device addressed to the Home Secretary ignited when opened in the post room at the Home Office earlier today (16.7.86). Although no-one was injured in the incident, it serves as a timely reminder of the need for continuing vigilance in the handling of incoming mail. Staff in post rooms and private offices should be especially alert."

II. OPERATIONS

A. Monitorial/Editorial

1. On the last day of the month the extensive coordination and negotiation of the previous several months culminated in a relatively painless assumption of Gulf Bureau coverage by participating bureaus and the BBC. A congratulatory message from the Chief/Operations Group was passed to the Monitoring Service. Further refinement of coverage will continue as coverage realities and workload impact on staffing, particularly at the BBC's East African Unit, are evaluated.
2. During the week of 21-25 July bureau editors assisted PMU in editing a large backlog of translated copy due to staffing shortages in the PMU's editorial team. Procedures were coordinated between the Chief Editor and Chief/PMU for the distribution and routing of the copy, which was handled expeditiously with minimal impact on the editorial workload.
3. Early in the month, the Chief Editor was temporarily displaced for a week by the Tabulation Unit for a much-needed refurbishment of the latter's working area. Painting, new blinds and other redecorating has greatly improved the working environment.
4. On 21-22 July, PMU editor [ ] completed the Wang training course for administrators of the PMU Wang VS-65 system. This "system optimization" course provided many insights which will make possible a more efficient long-term application of the system's capacity to the needs of PMU.

STAT

B. Communications

1. In contrast with the continuous record-breaking production figures reported in recent months, this month's production totaled a mere 2.76 million words. Total daily average of 89,090, however, was the second highest of the past 10 years.
2. Late in the month Vienna Bureau Chief [ ] formally thanked the Bureau's Communications Unit for their generous assistance earlier in the year in helping out Vienna's hard-pressed teletypists by punching several hundred thousand words of copy airtailed to the Bureau.
3. At the Bureau's initiative Headquarters approved a new digraph "TB" for the Tabulation Unit copy, thereby avoiding duplicative BFN's with the Editorial Unit.

STAT

C. Technical

1. Bureau engineers are hard at work designing and constructing an automatic numbering device for the [ ] circuit traffic tee'd through from the normally dedicated 300-baud autodin terminal. This will enable Bureau communications to track messages unreceived [ ]
2. An ongoing engineering project is the replacement of light fittings with a non-glare type providing more even light distribution, particularly suitable for use in VDU-equipped working areas. The editorial room is next on the schedule for conversion.
3. A new, locally purchased air handler has been installed in the Wireroom for use with the existing compressor and condenser on the roof in order to increase air handling capacity.
4. At the recommendation of a recent safety review, a small portable electric compressor has been purchased locally for use in pressurizing fire extinguishers located in Bureau leased housing.
