

End Chile ties, says Canadian farmers' union

ROSS, ANDREW
~~ORG 1 NATIONAL~~ FARMERS UNION OF CANADA

✓ WINNIPEG, Canada, Jan. 8 — Withdrawal of Andrew Ross, the Canadian ambassador to Chile, was demanded in a resolution adopted at the fourth convention of the National Farmers Union of Canada held here.

The resolution was adopted after the convention heard Hernan Ortega, a refugee from Chile, who spoke in place of Mrs. Hor-tensia Allende.

It also called for a list of political prisoners in Chile and for a cessation of the murder and torture of prisoners of the Chile junta.

Another resolution urged the outlawing of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency in Canada. It accused the CIA of being "directly involved in thwarting the democratic efforts of the people of other countries."

"The CIA," it said, "has in the past been involved in directing the social, economic and political future of Canada" and it demanded "that all activities of the CIA in Canada be rendered illegal by legislation."

The main thrust of the convention was for controls over monopoly, inflation and profiteering.

Control of Canada's energy resources was urged by Roy Atkinson, who was reelected president of the National Farmers Union. He demanded that "we do not allow our energy to be wasted or exploited for the benefit of others."

He also called for nationalization of the railroad system.
