Adm. Stansfield Turner
Director of Central Intelligence
Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Admiral Turner:

We invite you*to attend a special "Preview" of "The Intelligence Network" - a new film produced by the Campaign for Political Rights.

Tuesday, February 13, 1979
4:00pm
(Doors will be open at 3:45pm)

Folger Theater
Second and East Capitol Sts.
Washington, D.C.

This new documentary combines expert analysis with personal accounts of political surveillance in a 35-minute study of U.S. intelligence agency activity at home and abroad. Based on information obtained through Freedom of Information requests, citizens' lawsuits and Congressional investigations, "The Intelligence Network" reveals past and current abuses of local, state and federal intelligence agencies.

The "Preview" is by invitation only. Those invited include representatives of the administration and the intelligence community, members of Congress and the press, as well as critics of the intelligence agencies. This special viewing has been scheduled to provide you the opportunity to see the film prior to its nationwide distribution.

"The Intelligence Network" makes an important contribution to the continuing national debate over intelligence agency reform. The film raises issues which are of great concern: the proper role of the intelligence agencies in the post-Watergate era, the legitimate information requirements of government and the protection of political rights in this country and around the world.

We hope that you will join us to view this film.

 an extensive intelligence-sharing network of over 100 agencies at the local, state, federal and international level, including the FBI, the CIA, local and state police and private organizations.

Personal experiences are interwoven with expert accounts revealing the deliberate violations of political rights from the CIA's disruption of political activity around the world to spying and harassment by intelligence units of local police departments.

Documented by recently-uncovered files from the intelligence community itself, this important new film is an introduction to the large, secretive network that today continues to carry out political surveillance and harassment at home and abroad.
