1. Thank you for bringing the problems associated with the self-service Post Office to our attention. You are correct, the Post Office has been experiencing problems with both the money changing machine and with the stamp machine. A check with the Postmaster in McLean discloses that the equipment, which had been serviced twice a week, has recently received only weekly attention. Interestingly, he also reports that those machines receive an unusually high number of foreign coins which cause problems.

2. In any case, the Postmaster has pledged his efforts to both increase the frequency of service and to investigate the age and condition of the machines to determine if replacement is in order.

3. We will follow up with the Post Office and you should see improvement shortly. Again, thanks for bringing this matter to our attention.
