SUMMARY OF LEGISLATIVE PROPOSALS

1. The bulk of the proposals are designed to provide benefits for CIA employees and their families, particularly those serving abroad, in order to place them in a comparable position with other U. S. employees abroad. The present provisions or new proposals for Foreign Service benefits have been used as the principal model for our proposals. We are requesting authority for storage of household effects of employees stationed abroad, payment for one trip to the United States for dependents for secondary school and college education purposes, payment for travel for home leave after two years service abroad, payment of travel expenses for dependents of employees serving abroad who require hospitalization and payment for the cost of such hospitalization within certain limits, the establishment of minimal medical facilities abroad where they do not exist, and payment of allowances and post differentials comparable to the Foreign Service.

2. Two amendments are proposed in our procurement authorities which would enable us to negotiate contracts without advertising under roughly the same conditions as are now applicable to the Armed Services. The proposed amendment would extend our authority to do this in the fields of research and development, perishable supplies or supplies for resale, and medical supplies. The other substantive amendment in the procurement field would permit the Agency to enter into research and development contracts for five year terms with the ability to extend for an additional five year period if necessary. This amendment would also provide authority substantially similar to that of the Armed Services.

3. We have added a new section providing for a system of accelerated retirement for overseas service. Under our proposal, an employee is given one and one-half years of retirement credit for each year of service abroad, and two years of retirement credit for each year abroad at an unhealthful post. In order to retire voluntarily and to receive benefits, Agency employees must be at least 50 years of age, have 20 years of service, and have the approval of the Director. These retirement proposals have not been approved by the Bureau of the Budget and we may have some difficulty with them.

4. Another amendment raises the ceiling on employment of retired military officers from fifteen to thirty-five.
