Federal Surplus Personal Property Donation Programs

Federal surplus personal property donation programs enable certain non-Federal organizations to obtain personal property the Federal Government no longer needs.

The basic authority for donation programs is the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, as amended. This and related statutes authorize the Administrator of the General Services Administration (GSA) to transfer surplus personal property for donation to non-Federal public agencies and other specifically designated recipients. The major categories of eligible recipients are:

- public agencies
- nonprofit educational and public health activities
- nonprofit and public programs for the elderly
- educational activities of special interest to the armed services
- public airports

General information about such programs is given in this pamphlet, and offices from which more specific information can be obtained are listed.

Distribution of Surplus Personal Property

In accordance with the law, State surplus property agencies have been established by each State, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, the Northern Mariana Islands, and Guam to distribute personal property designated as surplus by the Federal Government. These State surplus property agencies advise applicants of eligibility requirements and procedures to be followed in acquiring Federal surplus personal property and of the conditions and restrictions placed on the property.

Most agencies operate on a self-sustaining basis by assessing recipients a service charge to cover handling, transportation, and administrative expenses.

Eligible Recipients

Public activities involved in such activities as conservation, economic development, education, park and recreation programs, public safety, programs for the elderly, and public health may be eligible for donations of surplus personal property.

Public Agencies

Public agencies may include States, their departments, divisions, and other instrumentalities; political subdivisions of States, including cities, counties, and other local Government units and economic-development districts; instrumentalities created by compacts or agreements between States or political subdivisions; and Indian tribes, bands, groups, pueblos, or communities located on State reservations.

Nonprofit Educational and Public Health Activities

Surplus personal property may be donated to nonprofit educational and public health activities exempt from taxation under Sec. 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. The property must be used to aid education or public health, either directly or through research. Nonprofit education and public health activities may include medical institutions, hospitals, clinics, and health centers; schools, colleges, and universities; child-care centers; educational radio and television stations; museums; and libraries.

Nonprofit and Public Programs for the Elderly

State or local government agencies, and nonprofit organizations or institutions, which receive funds appropriated for programs for older individuals under the Older Americans Act of 1965, as amended, under title IV or title XX of the Social Security Act, or under titles VIII and X of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 and the Community Services Block Grant Act, may be eligible to receive donations of surplus personal property for programs for the elderly.

Educational Activities of Special Interest to the Armed Services

The Secretary of Defense has designated activities such as military and maritime academies, armed-services preparatory schools and other schools with military-connected programs, and the national organizations such as the American National Red Cross; Boy Scouts of America; Boys' Clubs of America; Camp Fire, Inc.; Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.; Naval Sea Cadet Corps; United Service Organizations, Inc.; Young Marines of the Marine Corps League; Little League Baseball, Inc.; National Ski Patrol System, Inc.; Admiral H. G. Rickover Foundation; U.S. Olympic Committee; and SEA Schools as recipients of Department of Defense surplus personal property.

Individual units of the national organizations, such as Boy Scout or Girl Scout troops and Red Cross chapters, should contact their regional or national headquarters rather than the State surplus property agencies.

Public Airports

Any State, political subdivision, municipality, or tax-supported institution may receive surplus personal property through donation for use in the development, improvement, operation, or maintenance of a public airport.
