1. (S/NF/SK) Tasking: Initial tasking received 23 Oct 86. Ops officer provided monitor with tasking data (see attached); instructions clear.
2. (S/NF/SK) Session: Source seemed to achieve reasonable site contact immediately. However, monitor feels that AOL of "Dundalk" was actually an undeclared PI (induced by a trip there earlier in the day). After describing a "compound/facility," source was moved into S6 and instructed to construct a time line (per tasking) and search along it for "special events," if any. Source annotated the time line with his perceptions. (In S2, source produced the word "scaly"—a relatively rare site descriptor...interesting).
3. (S/NF/SK) Summary: Site is a compound/facility/complex of structures. Structures are grouped and of different heights, but related (NFI). There are large, rounded, cylindrical, long, parallel, shiny objects present (AOL— "pipes"). There is machinery that is not in use; site possesses a general feeling of "run down." Source was attracted to two points on the time line. Point 1 was associated with the assembly of three or more very large, rounded or cone-shaped objects. These were described as being black, grey, "sort of hollow" and metallic. The objects were to be mounted on the ends of each of the cylinders, described above, by many fasteners; the assembly was then to be used elsewhere. Point 2, later along the time line, was associated with what source described as a very large shape or mass which moved slowly and was accompanied by rumbles and vibrations (AOL—"space launch").
4. (S/NF/SK) Feedback: At the end of session, source was told that site was an operation and not a utility assessment target. Also, source was informed that monitor was aware that site was some type of technical facility, that the mission was to search the time period indicated, and that further tasking (sessions) would have to await ops officer direction.
