

SUBJECT: Report of Agent 018 on project CY 8610 (preliminary)

DATE: 4 August, 1986

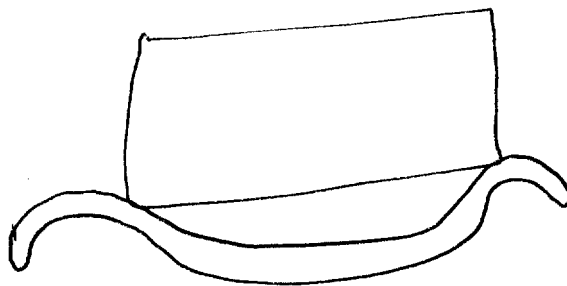

1. I kept the envelope marked "CY 8610" with me during work hours only.
2. There were no impressions on the inspirational ("A-HA!") level.
3. At one time I sat and concentrated on the envelope, to see what impressions I could get from it. The following impressions came, but I am very suspicious of them, since they very closely match a site which I already knew about, and which I had been discussing only hours before. I would normally edit every bit of this out, and discard it completely, but I know from experience that it is my job to report, not to edit.

a. Impressions began with a vague visual (this may be the only valid thing from the session) of what appeared to be a blue tubular device, with the appearance of a clothes caddy. Sketch follows:

b. This was followed by impressions which, as mentioned above, are suspiciously similar to another site:

- 1) Squarish "thing" mounted on top of "runners" or "tracks":

2) Later, a beam of "energy" coming from somewhere deep inside the squarish thing. Each time I would try to see where this beam of energy originated, I would find a very small black box inside the squarish thing with a curved and twisting channel leading into the center of it. The beam of energy originated there with a VERY SMALL mechanism. Each time I tried to access this very small mechanism, I would feel a very deep "lump" inside my chest which drove me back from it.
