DATE: 2 DECEMBER 1988
START TIME: 1045L
FINISH TIME: 1230L

Target is an object of some sort. The object is of limited use except by those who understand it and know how to use it. The object and it's contents have a future use to man in the form of a model, a teaching aid, a assistance in the understanding of other places and peoples.

The object is or was surrounded by people (AOL North American Indians). These people are clothed in skins and feathers. They are hard working and many or all of them revere the object as something magic or religious. There is one among the people who understands the object and it's applications -- he teaches the people about the object and applies his knowledge in ways that affect the welfare of the others.

The surrounding area is one of desolation -- large amounts of stone, flat land and sharp rocky hills or mountains. Reptiles are present in the area and may have some ceremonial application (in the time perceived) relative to the target.

The perceived time period is perhaps a hundred or more years ago.

The object is a gift from someone other than the people who have it in their possession.
