SESSION SUMMARY:

SITE: United Nations Building

At no time during this session did I have the feeling of a big city, modern buildings, world-wide organization, etc. During this session I edited nothing, everything was objectified on paper. During the session I had a very strong feeling of being "on-line". The descriptors throughout were of an ancient structure of natural stone, of something domed. The climate was dry, arid with surrounding landscape of brown & yellowish colors. From 10 miles high there was a land/water/shoreline interface perceivable, but the flavor was mediterranean. Perhaps that part of the world was the most important topic of the day at the U.N.?
