SESSION SUMMARY

SITE: George Washington bridge , New York city

..... perception of a very tall square structure... red in color.....
... definitely surrounded by a large city-like atmosphere..... vehicles at the base, horns honking..... there is a possibility I may have gone into AOL drive when I labeled the structure a sky scraper..... however, at no time during the session did I perceive a bridge over a river. Another possibility that I was stuck to one small portion of the site and not able to perceive the overall gestalt of the site..... overall, it wasn't really a bad session I definitely had a manmade, very tall structure in a big city and the possibility of the structure being red at this time seems reasonable if it is being painted with primer. The site also seemed to be located on the East coast of the U.S.
