Site is a large, military-post like grouping of buildings, of different shapes & functions, the purposes of which, while quite diverse, contribute to the overall "mission" of the site, which is covert, clandestine, ~~secret~~ and compartmented - both physically & in the security sense. There are several sub-activities that are directly related to this site's primary purpose, but these activities are deliberately separated from each other in the compartmented security sense so that no one person at the ~~lower~~ lower functional levels can piece the whole picture together. A man with a beard was perceived who felt that what he ~~is~~ ^{is} working on is ~~something~~ ^{something} he absolutely does not want to be widely known. He's worried that somehow information about it will "leak out." He feels his operation is the target of info collection activities, & his main protection is that seekers don't know where it is, or exactly what's going on. ~~purpose~~ ^{Nature} of ~~site's~~ ^{site's mission is}

Weapons development - non-conventional, probably non-nuclear, possibly bio/dread or energy-related.
