	NEAR EAST - AFRICA
1.	British Cabinet refuses immediate recognition of Farouk's title to Sudan:
	The British Cabinet has decided that Britain will not recognize Farouk as King of the Sudan prior to consultation with a Sudanese Parliament which will be elected this summer. Britain hopes that Egypt will instruct its sympathizers to participate in the election campaign in order to obtain maximum representation in the Parliament.
	Britain would have no objections to Egyptian- Sudanese discussions prior to the elections, but hopes that topics other than Farouk's title can be included.
,	Comment: The British Government has been reluctant to work out even this limited proposal on the Sudan. Because of the Egyptian insistence that the recognition of King Farouk's newly assumed title is essential to the success of any Anglo-Egyptian discussion, it appears that such discussions are likely to become deadlocked.
2.	Tunisian nationalists recruit German demolition experts:
	Consul in Benghazi to secure British police assistance in preventing five Germans, recruited in Cairo by the Tunisian nationalists, are demolition specialists who purportedly served with the German Army in Tunisia during World War II and speak Arabic. They have most recently been employed by the Engineer Corps of the Egyptian Army.

incapable of supporting the envisaged figure, it will ask for foreign aid pending a reduction of its defense burden. Furthermore, the Federal Republic and NATO will later review what other budgetary expenses are deductible from defense costs, with particular attention being given to federal aid to Berlin.

Comment: Germany's acceptance of its share of Western defense costs may be more apparent than real. There is a considerable difference between Allied and West German forecasts of gross national production. If the Allied forcast is not realized by fiscal year 1953, the Federal Republic will ask for a reduction of its defense costs.

In the November NATO meeting in Rome, the Allied High Commissioners were charged with negotiating an over-all defense figure for the West German fiscal year beginning 1 April. Hence West Germany will be granted a three- to four-month grace period before assuming the full costs of rearmament, which would cut some 330 million dollars from the original Allied figure for fiscal year 1952-53.

5.	Italian	Communists	seek to	regain	strike	initiative

The Communist Party is promoting local strikes throughout Italy. Many of these have been supported by the rank and file of the anti-Communist unions despite the announced opposition of their leaders.

A month-old strike over working conditions in the Sicilian sulphur mines, called by the Communist-dominated General Labor Confederation, has reached serious proportions. It now involves 10,000 workers, has interrupted MSA-sponsored modernization projects, and is paralyzing the sulphur industry.

3.3(h)(2)

The American Embassy in Rome comments that the Communists are trying to retrieve the initiative in the labor field and their ability to use strikes as a subversive weapon in an emergency.

Comment: This is the first indication of a country-wide strike campaign. Brief strikes were reportedly called by the General Labor Confederation among the metallurgical workers in four north Italian provinces within the last two weeks.

Such a strike offensive, apparently directed at Italian defense industries, would violate last December's pledge by the leader of the General Labor Confederation that its members would work regularly on defense orders and offer only passive opposition. This attitude has apparently not met with approval in high Communist quarters.
