Subject: Rudolf DIELS, Hof Twenge near Langenhagen, Kreis Hannover
Ref. : Without

According to information obtained by this office from a generally reliable informant, Dr. Rudolf DIELS, now of Hof Twenge near Langenhagen, Kreis Hannover, former Oberregierungsrat in the Prussian Ministry of Interior and first Chief of the Secret State Police Office after 1933, said in Mid-June to an acquaintance, that the "US Intelligence Service" had approached him and requested his co-operation. DIELS supposedly agreed on the condition that the primary aim of investigations would be the "red net in West-Germany".

In explanation of his statement, DIELS said, that he intended to prove, that former Communists, ^{but} also so-called resistance fighters from other camps, systematically engaged in the task of sabotaging any attempt for a national rally, national revival and the recovery of national consciousness.
