SUBJECT Estimated Enemy Prison Order of Battle in Laos

CAMP

ACQ Laos, Vientiane (27 July 1969)

SOURCE [Redacted]

1. As of 25 July 1969, there were an estimated 500 personnel committed to guarding, escorting, and providing support for prisoners of war (POW's in 54 confirmed enemy camps in Laos. These personnel are reflected as a portion of the command and support personnel for Laos, mentioned in the summary of estimated enemy order of battle for Laos as of 15 July 1969.

2. Living conditions. Generally, POWs receive humane treatment by Asian standards. [Redacted] comment: Some POWs have stated that they had received unhumane treatment or were subjected to various indignities.) Food, although often reported as minimal, unclean, and unseasoned, is sufficient for existence; however, it often leads to malnutrition and disease which claims a large number of POW casualties. Medical treatment, while not adequate by Western standards, is normally available in primitive form.

3. POW camps. POW are confined to a cave and/or stockade type structure during the night, but are permitted to go outside sometime during the day for exercise. POW camp locations are changed frequently to provide better security. In some cases, all or part of the POWs are allowed beyond the prison confines under light guard to forage for jungle foods. Prison guard forces are usually made up of personnel who due to their age or physical condition are unfit for regular military duty. Pathet Lao soldiers normally make up escort and guard forces. Many POW camps have full or part time North Vietnamese Army (NVA) advisors. NVA interrogators occasionally question POWs.

4. Political indoctrination. The enemy makes a concerted effort to indoctrinate POWs to the Communist cause through long periods of political training ("brain washing"). If and when a POW shows favorable improvement, he is released to become a soldier, a farmer, or often a propagandist.
