The Bishop government closed down the biweekly Torchlight Saturday night "until further notice," leaving the New Jewel--published by the Prime Minister's party--as the only newspaper printed on the island. Torchlight was increasingly critical of Bishop's relations with Cuba and also accused him of "hostility" toward the US.

COMMENT: Bishop had been publicly hinting at such a move over the past month. Torchlight, like Bishop, opposed former Prime Minister Gairy before the coup last March but has backers less radical than those in the Bishop camp.
