off on Sunday an unemployed driver would take his place. In this way the drivers could have four days of rest a month and the unemployed could be helped. All this was managed by the Labor Union. Unemployed drivers got their turn to work by drawing lots. This system proved to be very satisfactory. Since the Communist labor leaders have taken over the Union, the Sunday wages of drivers have been doubled. The Sunday wages were not given to the drivers themselves, but are pocketed by the labor leaders.

5. The director of the Shanghai branch office of the China Merchants Steam Navigation Co. (CMSNC) is YU Mei (于梅), who is concurrently vice Minister of Communications and also the director of the bureau of Shipping Administration of the Municipality of Shanghai. HUANG Mo-tsung (黄慕宗) is the chief of Shipping Section in the bureau of Shipping Administration.
6. The Military Control Commission of Shanghai recently set up a training center for seamen in the CMSNC. YANG Shen (杨森) has been appointed the director of the training center. Lessons on Communist ideology, military tactics, and technical training were held for the purpose of training over 400 seamen-trainees. The training center is located in Chang Chow Hotel, Bubbling Well Road, Shanghai. The first session ended on 10 February. The second session will be held in Nanking.
7. TUNG Hao-ming (董鹤民) and YANG Tsai-kuang (杨再光) have been sent to Hong Kong by the Shanghai Military Control Commission. They have set up a library on the third floor of the CMSNC Building. The courses of the training class will include Chinese, geography, military and political science. Facilities for swimming, basket ball, ping pong, and chess-playing will be given to the trainees. They are also planning to set up training courses on all ships in Hong Kong, for the purpose of tightening up their control over the seamen.
8. A farewell party for labor union members going from Hong Kong to Shanghai as tourists was given on 24 March by the Branch Office of the CMSNC in Hong Kong. This tour was organized by members of the CMSNC who had gone over to the Communists. LO Ping-ch'iu (罗秉秋) is the man responsible. He and a few other members will make a visit to Shanghai and return to Hong Kong within a month.*
9. One of the two steamships of the Kwangsi Navigation Co., the KWAI SHAN (桂山) sailed from Hong Kong to Canton and has been requisitioned by the Communists. CH'EN K'o-jen (陈可仁), manager of the Company, has also gone to Canton. Staff of the Company as well as seamen are not willing to be made use of and refuse to go.
10. KUNG TAH (公大), a ship belonging to Shanghai Kung Yeh Shipping Co., which normally carries a freight of 600 tons, is regularly sailing, mostly at night, between Shanghai, Hankow and Changsha. When at Shanghai, the ship docks at Tah Dah Wharf.
11. CHOU Pao-an (周保安), in charge of the Seamen's Union in Swatow, has remained in the city since the takeover. He is being guided in his activities by the seamen's union in Hong Kong. The local authorities prohibited all outside activities of the union. Now, CHOU has joined the Communists; and together with CHEN Sheng (陈生) of the Swatow Military Control Commission, he has been doing propaganda work among seamen. CH'EN Han-chiang (陈汉强) and CH'EN Yi-ch'uan (陈一权) are his assistants.
