Dear H. C.

This will introduce Major Duncan C. Lee, graduate of Yale and Oxford, and a close personal friend of mine. He is taking a trip to China with General Donovan and has the benefit of many years in China in the past. I doubt whether Duncan will have anything to do with you in the line of business, but I can assure you that you will find him a pleasant and charming companion, and I should appreciate your introducing him to some of my friends in China.

We have been looking for your arrival here for some time. I think it would be most beneficial if you could come here in view of the undoubted value of such a visit in terms of better coordination of the efforts of those who wish to help China. I will keep on hoping. My very best regards to Pauline.
