Dear Mr. Kopytoff:

This is a final response to your 20 August 2007 Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request, which was received on 29 August 2007, for:

Documents related to Google, the Internet search engine based in Mountain View, California. Specifically, your request is for correspondence between the CIA and Google including e-mails to and from the company's corporate domain ending in @google.com that contain any of the following keywords:

- Satellite
- Aerial
- Map
- Earth
- Search

To the extent your request seeks information that is the subject to the FOIA, the Agency cannot accept this request, in its current form, because it would require the Agency to perform an unreasonably burdensome search. The FOIA requires requesters to "reasonably describe" the information they seek so that professional employees familiar with the subject matter can locate responsive information with a reasonable amount of effort. Because of the breadth, vagueness, and lack of specificity of your request, and the way in which the Agency configures its records systems that are subject to the FOIA, the Agency cannot conduct a reasonable search for information responsive to your request.

We are sorry that we cannot assist you with this request.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Scott Koch".

Scott Koch
Information and Privacy Coordinator
