(30 March 1999) Gama'at claims cease-fire

The Egyptian al-Gama'at al-Islamiyya on Friday publicly renounced terrorist operations, reversing its call in December for a jihad against the US. The group, however, may be concealing terrorism plans-- [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] [REDACTED]. A cease-fire would reduce the number of Egyptian extremists that Bin Ladin could use and limit his access to Gama'at hubs [REDACTED]
